THE MYSTERY WIZARD

COMPASS OF WONDERS

Make your own magical adventure compass

INSTRUCTIONS:

1. Print on cardstock.
2. Cut out the compass and pointer.
3. Ask an adult to make the holes and attach a paper fastener.
4. Turn the pointer and choose a quest!

Where did your compass point today?

- COURAGE: Try something new.
- SELF-BELIEF: Name a strength.
- PERSISTENCE: Try once more.
- DISCOVERY: Notice a new detail.

Your compass wakes when you are ready for your next quest.

THE MYSTERY WIZARD

Welcome, Apprentice!

Ah, there you are! I had a feeling this compass would find its way to you.

Your Compass of Wonders holds four invitations: the courage to try something new, the belief that you can, the persistence to keep going, and the curiosity to discover something wonderful.

The compass will show you the way, but the magic is already inside you.

Ask a grown-up to help you put it together, then turn the pointer toward the quest you need today. Perhaps something feels a little frightening. Perhaps something hasn't worked… yet. There is a direction for days like those.

You don't have to finish every quest at once. Even the grandest adventures begin with one small step. Mine usually begin with finding where I left my hat.

Your compass is ready, Apprentice. What will you discover?

With a spark of wonder,

The Mystery Wizard

For grown-ups: Begin the adventure with The Invisible Spell, the first book in The Mystery Wizard Chronicles (ages 6–10)—a magical story about confidence, courage, and learning to believe in yourself. Available on Amazon.
